

readers' gallery

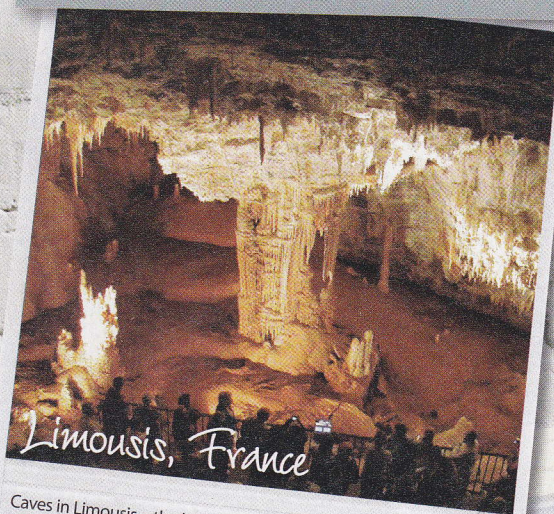

FROM THE TOP OF BORNEO TO THE CAVES OF FRANCE, HERE ARE YOUR BEST PICS...

A traveller without a camera? You must be mad! A camera is such an essential piece of travel kit these days, you'd be hard pressed to find a world wanderer without one.

But what sort of shots do you look for? What views, scenes and images do you try to capture on your travels? For some, it's the people shots – you and your friends enjoying a mojito in Cuba or the look on your guide's face as you tip him for showing you the secrets of the Sphinx in Cairo – for others it's those shots that really capture the sense of a place. Either way, we'd love to see those pics!

Email high-resolution photos to: hreisenhofer@createpublishing.co.uk with 'gallery' as the subject (don't forget a brief caption) or send your prints to Readers' Gallery, Real Travel, Create Publishing, 15-16 Lower Park Row, Bristol BS1 5BN.

Limousis, France

Caves in Limousis – the largest in the region. Archeological remains of flints and earthenware prove that this cave was once used by prehistoric man.
Julie Liddell, via email

Riva del Garda, Italy

In the ancient heart of Riva del Garda's narrow streets twist and cobble their way up from the harbour between tall, timelessly shuttered buildings.
Andrew Munrow, via email

Queenstown, New Zealand

I met Neasa the previous night when checking into the YHA hostel in Queenstown, New Zealand. Together, we went off-roading through the Shotover River.
Adam Aldred-Lane, via email

Easter Island

Round and round the moai on Easter Island!
Jean Francois, via email